City Regulator

Makes Suggestions as to How to Build a Wichita.

To the Editor of the Eagle: Now that outs are so plenty and grass in such great abuncance, there is no exdray or baggage transfer license to those only whose horses were in a good working condition. There are a number the streets day after day that cry our for a humane society to protect them.

A farmer drove onto the avenue Wed esday morning who had five or six half oushel baskets full of peaches as big as your fist. He had hauled them fifteen miles; he only asked thirty cents a basket for them, but in spite of the extreme low price, one fellow with a soul so small offered him twenty-five cents. The same bankets of peaches would have sold on Chicago market for one deliar and twenty-five cents.

Talk about your cities. I was driving on Laurence avenue this week and saw a cow larlated to a tree on the edge of the sidewalk, while the pedestrians cut a cir ultous route into the middle of the street to pass her. Where is that mounted po-

In face of what those cannon and the ones formerly used here by the battery did instead of firing a salute. I would take them down to the bridge and fire them into the river. There is something else in commanding a battery other than giving orders to load and fire.

Every resident in the city has a perfect right to let the grass grow and their fences to stand and wabble in the winds of nights and creake, so do their neighbors have equal rights to criticise their

If all the violators of the shooting order had been arrested on the Fourth of July the treasury would be greatly replealshed However the administration is to be congratulated, for comparative quiet reigned throughout the city all the light of the third and tired people rested on the Mount from the sixth chapter of and were prepared to go picnicing on the

A man elected to the legislature can do greater honor to himself than voting for framing a law and securing its passing that will give humane societies a chance give them a law that will empower them to make arrests and when found guilty, allow anyone to fine a complaint provided they furnish the evidence.
